

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS

1. An improved packing box comprising at least one lifting cover member pivotally connecting a box member of the packing box, a wall of the box member being internally set a line wall, which being shorter than a height of the wall, a thickness
5 of the cover member being equal to a height difference of the wall and the line wall for the height of the cover member being as same level as a top of the box member while the cover member covering onto the box member, a frame board with at least one lateral slot being established on a top of the cover member and with a fluting, a flexible belt consolidating on lateral sides of the frame for fastening the cover
10 member and the box member.
2. The improved packing box as cited in claim 1, wherein the cover member can further be a two-piece cover member and with an oblique to which run from opposite directions pattern
3. The improved packing box as cited in claim 1, wherein the flexible belt is a ribbon.
- 15 4. The improved packing box as cited in claim 1, wherein at least one suitable position of a top of the line wall is mounted a magnet, and at least one responsive position on the cover member is installed a magnetic piece for fastening the cover member and the box member.